Discipline Policy

Children are treated with respect and dignity by staff members, and the expectation is that children will model their behavior and treat staff and other children with respect and dignity.

Accepted discipline methods include:

- Positive guidance
- Setting clear limits
- Redirection

Should a dispute arise between children or between a child and teacher, the teacher will encourage a talking it out process among those involved. The goal of the talking it out process will be to acknowledge feelings and find solutions using children's ideas whenever possible. If this fails to resolve the problem, a time away from the activity or "essay" will be assigned, which will be determined by the staff person involved. In addition, a child who may be overly aggressive or is repeatedly destructive of other children's work may be asked to make an activity choice in another area if talking things through has not resulted in better self-control. Parents are then notified, verbally and in writing, when they pick up their child regarding both the positive and negative aspects of their child's day. The communication between staff and parents is open and regular, so that each child understands that staff and parents are "on their side" and actions/consequences are taken for their own benefit. The child is included in the decisions regarding behavior/activities at Suncatchers.

Staff will continuously supervise children during the disciplinary actions.

Staff will not be abusive, neglectful, or use corporal, humiliating or frightening punishment under any circumstances. No child will be physically restrained unless it is necessary to protect the safety and health of the child or another child or adult. If a child presents himself as a danger to himself or others, he will be physically but gently restrained until he is able to regain appropriate control of his behavior. If a child is unable to behave in a safe manner for himself and others, and after working with the child's parents to come to a solution, then the child will not be able to attend Suncatchers until he is able to behave appropriately.

If parents are unwilling to work with Suncatchers staff to come to a solution to the problem, then the child will be excluded from the program.
